THE KINGDON ARMS

Burke in his History of the Commoners, 1836, vol. ii., pp. 211-13, asserts that "Kingdon of Launcells" bears the ancient arms of Kingdon of Trehunsey, co. Cornwall, quartered with the ancient arms of Boughton. The right to the Boughton quartering was obtained by the marriage of Richard Kingdon, Esq., to Rebecca, dau. and heiress of Rev. George Boughton. Richard Kingdon's oldest brother, Rev. John Kingdon, also married an heiress, Jane, daughter of Rev. John Hockin; and Burke declares in a footnote that "the branch of the Kingdon family descended from the marriage of the Rev. John Kingdon with Jane, daughter of Rev. John Hockin, quarters the Hockin arms with those of Kingdon." Burke also cites at length from Gilbert's Historical Survey of Cornwall what purports to be a lengthy extract from the grant of the Hockin arms. These facts were placed before the College of Arms, London, eliciting the reply following:

SIR:—

In reply to your letter of the 19th Dec. received this week I have to say that the family of Kingdon described in Burke's Hist. of the Commoners, vol. 2, p. 211, is not recorded in the official books.

The paragraph extracted from the grant to Hockin appears to be extracted from the Registered Grant.

There being no recorded pedigree of Kingdon, I am unable to state whether there exist persons who would be entitled to quarter Hockin if they had arms recorded for Kingdon. . . .

I have the honor to be

Your Obl. Sct.

FRANK ALLABEN, Esq.

A further report was subsequently communicated as follows:

COLLEGE OF ARMS, LONDON E. C.

21 Feb 1905

FRANK ALLABEN, Esq.

DEAR SIR:— In reply to your letter of the 4th inst. I have to report.

1. That the family of Kingdon described in Burke's History of the Commoners, vol. 2, p. 211, is not on record.

2. So precise a statement as that given by Burke certainly implies that the family of Kingdon does represent the family of Hockin mentioned.

3. The arms mentioned as those of Hockin are on record.

The passage purporting to be quoted from the grant of arms to Hockin is inaccurate, and as the original grant mentions several genealogical facts I have had an exact copy made of it which I enclose.

The arms given for Kingdon in Burke's Commoners are, Arg^t a chevron sable between 3 magpies proper. They are attributed to Kingdon of Launcells, Cornwall, in the best ordinary of British Arms, that of Papworth, on page 399. He gives as authority Pentyer Harleian MSS. 1404 14b, which is of course in the British Museum. They quarter Boughton—Sable, three crescents or—also given in Papworth, p. 600, without any authority.

The result of all this is that probably there existed at one time a family of Kingdon having the arms given in Burke, but it has not been recorded. We have therefore no official knowledge that any living person of the name, or any person who has lived in the last 400 years has or had right to the arms. There is no pedigree showing that a Kingdon married a Hockin.

Believe me, Yours faithfully,

W. A. LINDSAY.

Thus, while no Kingdon pedigree is on record in the College of Arms, Burke and Papworth, with the authorities they cite, are authority for the right of Kingdon of Launceells to the ancient arms of Kingdon of Trehunsey, which brings the same authority in support of the right of the descendants of Rev. John Kingdon and Jane Hockin to the same arms, as George Boughton Kingdon of Launceells, Esq., was the nephew of the Rev. John Kingdon who married Jane Hockin. The copy of the grant of the Hockin arms sent by Mr. Lindsay is as follows:

TO ALL AND SINGULAR, to whom these Presents shall come Stephen Martin Leake, Esquire, Garter Principal King of Arms & Sir Charles Townley, Knt. Clarenceux King of Arms of the South, East and West Parts of England from the River Trent Southwards send Greeting: WHEREAS those ancient Badges or Ensigns of Gentility commonly called or Known by the name of Arms have heretofore been and still are continued to be conferred upon deserving Persons to distinguish them from the Common Sort of People who neither can or may pretend to use them without lawful authority. AND WHEREAS John Hockin, Clerk, Master of Arts, Vicar of Oakhampton, Rector of Lydford, in the County of Devon, and Chaplain to the Right Honorable George Lord Lyttleton hath represented unto the Right Honorable Henry Earl of Suffolk and Berkshire Deputy with the Royal Approbation, to the Most Noble Edward Duke of Norfolk, Earl Marshall and Hereditary Marshal of England, That he is the only Son of Thomas Hockin of Caduscott in the parish of Liskeard and County of Cornwall, Gentleman by Miriam his Wife, Daughter of James Ellis of Camborn in the said County and grandson of John Hoekin of Godrevey in the Parish of Gwythian and County of Cornwall, aforesaid, and that he is desirous of having a Coat of Arms and Crest granted which may allude to the following Event in his Family: In Time of War with France, at the Beginning of Queen Anne's Reign a large French Privateer cruising in the Bristol Channel came to an Anchor off an Estate called Godrevey then in Possession of John Hoekin his grandfather before mentioned who was one of the principal Inhabitants of the parish, and it being conjectured that the Privateer's Intent was to send in her boat to plunder the House, which stood alone, and carry off the Cattle from the estate; The said John Hoekin and his Family were alarmed and collected their Friends and Neighbours to Keep Watch that Night on the Cliff or Beach. At Daybreak they all dispersed, thinking the Danger over, but just as Thomas Hockin his Father aforesaid, then a young man, was getting into Bed another Person whose Fears had led him out more than once to take a View, came in a great Hurry and told him that a Boat full of Men was making for the Shore as fast as they could row, on which the said Thomas Hockin slipped on his Clothes and catching up a Gun and a Pole to feign the appearance of another, ran out and down a steep hill to the Sea in sight of the Boat, from whence he was fired at several Times, then got behind a Rock, which served him as a Breast work, and from thence with his one Gun only fired on the Boat with so much Vigour and Effect as to prevent the Crew's landing, and at last make them turn about and row back again to their Ship as fast as they could; for preserving the memory of this brave action or rather Providential Deliverance, The said John Hockin did request his Lordship's Warrant for our devising, granting and assigning to him and his Descendants & to the Descendants of his said father Thomas Hoekin, his Brothers and their Descendants such Arms and Crest as may allude to the above Event, and be lawfully borne by Him and Them; and that the same with his Family No such Pedigree may be register'd with the Gentry of this Kingdom in the Heralds pedigree Office. And forasmuch as His Lordship duly considering the Premises did registered. by Warrant under his Hand and Seal bearing date the Twenty Eighth day of April last past order and direct Us to devise grant and assign such Arms and Crest accordingly: Know ye therefore that We the said Garter and Clarenceux in pursuance of the Consent of the said Earl of Suffolk and Berkshire, and by Virtue of the Letters Patent of Our Several Offices to each of Us respectively granted under the Great Seal of Great Britain, have devised for and do by these Presents grant and assign unto the said John Hockin the Arms following, that is to say Per Fess Wavy Gules and Azure, a Lyon passant guardant Or, beneath his Feet a Musket lying horizontally Proper, and semy of Fleurs de Lis confusedly dispersed of the Third, And for the Crest On a Wreath of the Colours a Rock therefrom a Sea Gull rising Proper, with this Motto HOC IN LOCO DEUS RUPES, as the same are in the margin hereof, more plainly depicted; to be borne & used for Ever hereafter by him the said John Hockin, and his Descendants, and by the Descendants of his Father Thomas Hockin, his Brothers and their Descendants, with their due and proper Differences according to the ancient Practice and Custom of Arms, without the Let or Interruption of any Person or Persons whatsoever: In Witness whereof We the said Garter and Clarenceux Kings of Arms have to these Presents subscribed Our Names and affixed the Seals of our several Offices this seventh Day of May, in the fourth year of the Reign of Our Sovereign Lord George the Third by the Grace of God King of Great Britain France and Ireland Defender of the Faith, &c.: and in the year of our Lord one Thousand Seven Hundred and Sixty four.

2. "The Kingdons are an old and respectable family of the counties of Cornwall and Devon. Their most ancient residence of which there is now an authentic account was at Trehunsey, in the parish of Quithiock, Cornwall, where they flourished in the 12th, 13th, 14th and 15th centuries. In the parish church at Quithiock is a cross aisle, on the southern side, belonging to the ancient mansion and manor of Trehunsey, with the family vault underneath, near which stands an antique marble monument on which are the brass effigies of Roger Kingdon (who died A.D. 1462), Joanna, his wife, and fifteen children, viz., ten sons and five daughters, with four shields of arms, and the following inscription: 'Hic jacent Rogerus Kyngdon, Joanna, uxor ejus, filii, filiaque, ac omnes progenitores eorum. Qui obiit tertio die mensis Marcii Ao. Dni. Mccccxij: Quorum animabus propitiatur Jesus, Amen.' The arms of Kingdon — Arg. a chev. sa. between three magpies ppr. appear on one of the shields. The younger sons of this numerous family dispersed and branched forth into several parishes in the counties of Cornwall and Devon." — Ibid. Captain T. Donald Tod of New York informs us that Mrs. Charles Kingdon of Lakewood, N. J., has a copy on parchment made directly from the Quethiock monument which states that Roger Kyngdon had eleven sons and five daughters, instead of ten sons and five daughters as stated by Burke. In a letter to The Genealogical Department of THE GRAFTON PRESS dated 16 February 1905 Rev. J. Augustus Wix, Vicar of Quithiock, Liskeard, Cornwall, speaks of the monument as "the large brass in the floor," and declares that "there is no old marble monument." He adds: "The arms' brasses have disappeared — how or where I do not know."

8. Bridgerule Parish Register, on the authority of Reginald M. Glencross, Esq. On the church wall of St. Bridgets, Bridgerule, Devon, there is a white marble tablet in memory of Roger Kingdon and his wife Judith. A copy of this, in the possession of Mrs. Charles Kingdon of Lakewood, N. J., as communicated to The Genealogical Department of THE GRAFTON PRESS 2 February 1905 by Captain T. Donald Tod, reads: "In memory of Roger Kingdon, of this parish, Gent. son of John Kingdon of East — died Novbr. 27th 1772 aged 74. Also his wife Judith, daughter of John Cory of Holsworthy, merer, who died Octbr 15th 1780. Their social virtues of Hospitality, Beneficence, and exemplary lives created real respect, and their departure has occasioned real sorrow." While the above gives the date of death of Roger Kingdon as 27 Nov. 1772, Mr. Glencross cites the Bridgerule Register for his burial in 1778. Mr. Glencross is no doubt right. If Roger Kingdon was born in 1704 (Coleridge Register), and died at the age of 74 (Tablet), his death must have occurred in 1778. Again, Mr. Glencross says that Judith was buried 17 Aug. 1780, while the tablet inscription as just quoted gives the date of her death as 15 Oct.

1780. A note accompanying the copy states, however, that when examined the tablet was "much discolored by time and rendered rather indistinct."

He m. in 1766, Jane, daughter of the Rev. John Hockin, patron and vicar of Okehampton, and rector of Lydford, both in Devonshire, and chaplain to George, Lord Littleton." — John Burke, Commoners, 1836, ii., pp. 211-13. Burke was in error, however, in asserting that the grandfather of Rev. John Kingdon was Roger Kingdon. The father of Rev. John Kingdon, Roger Kingdon of Holsworthy, was the son of John Kingdon of East Lee, Coleridge, co. Devon. See pedigree above and note 8.

- "1784. May 11th Mary Dau. of Richd. and Rebecca Kingdon."

Burke in his pedigree of "Kingdon of Launcell's (Commoners, ii., 1836, pp. 211-13) gives all of the above children except the sons, John and Dennis. He also shows (as does the above pedigree based upon the Holsworthy Parish Register) that George Boughton Kingdon of Launcells, Esq., was the nephew of Rev. John Kingdon, Vicar of Bridgerule and Rector of Pyworthy. The importance of this appears in the note on the arms.

23. Rev. T. S. Kendall furnishes the following, which appears under "burials" in the Holsworthy Parish Register, No. 2 Book: "1780. March 10th John son of Richard and Rebecca Kingdon."

28. Charles Kingdon is not named by Burke among the sons of Rev. John and Jane (Hockin) Kingdon. A marble tablet inside the church of St. Bridgets, Bridgerule, however, bears the following: "Sacred to the memory of Charles Kingdon, Esqr. of this parish, son of John Kingdon, vicar of this parish, and Jane his wife, who died suddenly on the 17th of March 1850, aged 59, and was buried underneath this spot."
